2 CRITICALLY HURT IN FREAK FARM MISHAPS

Blacksmith, Kicked By Horse as He Finishes Shoeing It, Near Death.

HIS SKULL FRACTURED

Second Victim Suffers Pierced Side as He Falls on Corn Stubble in Field.

Two men were in serious condition in General hospital today of injuries received in two freak accidents near Loudonville yesterday.

Most critically injured was Osman Hays, 45, who was kicked in the face while shoeing a horse at the Ira Stull farm, near Sand Ridge, yesterday.

Hays was rushed to General hospital by a Loudonville ambulance, where he was treated for a fractured skull and a bad gash over the left eye.

According to the Mansfield physician who treated Hays yesterday, the injury was "a deep, penetrating fracture of the worst kind." Hays' condition today was described by the physician to be "extremely critical."

Reports from Loudonville stated that the horse Hays was shoeing had a reputation for being a bad kicker and an extremely dangerous horse to shoe.

Eye-witnesses said the accident occurred after Hays had completed shoeing the horse and had released him. It was then that the horse kicked Hays in the face.

Also badly injured and in General hospital today was Herman Schultz, 38, who fell from a binder while cutting corn on his farm south of Loudonville.

Witnesses said Schultz fell from the binder onto a corn stubble, which pierced his side, causing severe internal injuries. The Mansfield physician who treated Schultz yesterday said today that Schultz' condition was "only fair."

The accident occurred when Schultz tried to keep the team of mules he was driving from going out of the corn field and pulled one of the reins loose. Schultz lost his balance and fell to the ground.

Witnesses said the piece of stubble which entered Schultz' side was more than a foot long.

QUICKLY CAUGHT

Reformatory Trusty at Large Just 15 Minutes.

Clyde Brooks, 21-year-old Ohio State reformatory inmate was back behind bars today with two years additional time to serve as penalty for a brief fling at freedom yesterday.

A posse of institution guards captured Brooks near the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company yesterday afternoon, just 15 minutes after his absence at the farm dormitory was discovered.

Brooks was sentenced Jan. 24, 1939 from Madison county to serve a one to 20 year term for auto theft.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said he would be required to serve two years additional time as penalty for breaking his trusty pledge.

8,500 KILLED

Churchill Reports Air Raid Casualties in Britain.

LONDON—(AP)—British air raid casualties up to last Saturday were about 8,500 killed and 13,000 wounded since heavy bombing began Sept. 7, Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today.

Casualty tolls had declined steadily, he said, from over 6,000 in the first week, to about 5,000 in the second week, about 4,000 in the third and 3,000 last week.

Willkie Blasts 'Pigmy Hitlers'; FDR Has Ride

Lashes At Hague As Typical New Deal Leader

By THEODORE F. KOOP

NEW YORK—(AP)—From neighboring New Jersey, where he accused President Roosevelt of seeking "to perpetuate his power through petty Hitlers," Wendell L. Willkie brought his presidential drive today into the home territory of the Democratic campaign manager.

After a noonday tour of the picturesque garment and theatrical centers, the Republican nominee will speak tonight in the Bronx, residence of Democratic Chairman Edward J. Flynn.

Aides expect him to take that occasion to renew the charge he made in a speech last night at Newark, N. J., that "we have political machines just like the Nazi party x x x operated by little pigmy Hitlers." He added the word "pigmy" to his prepared text.

In that address Willkie linked Flynn, whom he called "Boss of the Bronx," with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and "the commissioner of sewers" in Chicago as "pillars of the New Deal democracy." Hague is vice chairman of the Democratic national committee.

To the applause and cheers of a crowd in the Newark stadium estimated by police at 32,000, he shouted:

"This is the issue that we Republicans have with the New Deal. The New Deal relies on political bosses. The Republican party relies on the people.

"We are ranged in battle against

President Cheered By Crowds During Defense Trip

By GEORGE DURNO.

WASHINGTON — (INS)—President Roosevelt's special train en route to the capital was delayed briefly early this morning when reports of an attempted "plot" to dynamite the tracks were investigated by secret service operatives, railroad police and New York state troopers.

The train was halted 41 miles north of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., after a trackwalker reported he had seen a man plant a box under a trestle over which the train was to pass shortly afterwards.

The trackwalker telephoned to Albany and the train was flagged down before reaching the trestle. Investigation showed that the suspected "bomb" was a cheap jewelry box, evidently placed there by a tramp.

The train then resumed its journey arriving in Washington shortly before 9 a. m.

Mr. Roosevelt returned to the capital after a "defense and business" swing through a dozen upstate New York towns and cities that accorded him most cordial receptions.

The president made no open bid for New York's 47 electoral votes but he motored through cheering crowds in Albany, Troy, Watervliet, Cohoes, Waterford, Stillwater, Schuylerville, Saratoga Springs, Latham, Mechanicville and Loudonville.

The chief executive will remain at his White House desk only for the next three days.

Thursday night he will head

Part Of Last Day's Registration Rush

For 14 hours yesterday—from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m.—the augmented staff at the county board of elections in the courthouse worked to register prospective voters who waited until the deadline day. Approximately 1,500 voters were registered yesterday, many of them standing in line for more than an hour, despite the steady work of a large staff. The picture shows a member of the election board attending to one line while doorways were jammed.

REGISTRATION HITS NEW HIGH

20,000 Eligible to Vote In County, Estimate; 1,500 Register on Last Day.

With more than 1,500 jamming their way into the election board offices yesterday to register or transfer before the deadline, Richland county now has an estimated 20,000 registration.

That was the estimate of George Balliet, president of the election board, who said that the rush to register had been so heavy in the past few days that an accurate count of new registrations could not be completed for several days.

However, he said he was confident that total registration was the highest in the county's history by at least 1,000.

The board office remained open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. yesterday to accommodate the crowds. Yesterday was the deadline for registration for the November election.

Heavy registrations were reported from all over the state as the deadline passed and Secretary of State George M. Neffner predicted that the biggest vote on Ohio's history will be cast on Nov. 5.

Neffner said he would not be surprised if the vote reached the 3,250,000 mark. This would exceed the 1936 presidential election record by 240,000.

Neffner estimated a total of 2,-

On Trip Seeking Tips On How To Landscape Plant

A delegation of city officials went to Findlay and Elyria today to look over landscaping at sewage treatment plants in those cities.

Mansfield has approximately $2,000 balance in a PWA fund used for construction of the treatment plant four years ago and it has been proposed that the money be used for beautifying the grounds.

The officials made the trip to Findlay and Elyria to inspect work done there recently and to gather some ideas concerning what type of landscaping would be adequate for the Mansfield plant.

Those making the trip are Service-safety Director C. M. Crafton, Plant Superintendent James R. Turner, Fred Miller, chairman of council's finance committee; Arthur L. Croak, chairman of the parks committee, and C. N. Shultz.

EXPECTS TO BUY METERS TODAY

Mayor Says He Plans to Let Contract on New Bids; Crafton Out of City.

Mayor William J. Locke indicated this morning that a contract for the leasing of 500 parking meters for a nine-month trial period would be let today to one of the six firms which submitted proposals on the machines yesterday.

It is the second time bids on the meters have been considered in the past six weeks, the mayor rejecting previous bids after studying them for more than two weeks, on the grounds that "pressure groups" were working for various installations.

Reductions from $250 to $1,000 were represented in the bids opened yesterday, four of the six proposals showing a lower unit price than was quoted Aug. 26.

"I want to try and settle this matter today," Locke said, explaining that Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton was out of the city on sewage plant inspection trip and had left the decision up to him.

The mayor said that the director and he had failed to agree on a choice and that Crafton had cast his vote before leaving. He did not indicate which machine the service director favored, although Crafton had previously ar-

Stage Set For Violent Explosion in Orient as Japs Resent Action Of Britain in Supporting Chinese War Forces

Great Britain formally notified Japan today that she has decided to reopen the Burma road—lifeline of war supplies to China—thereby setting the stage for a possibly violent explosion in the Orient.

So grave was the situation that all United States consulates throughout the Japanese empire, Manchoukuo, China, French Indo-China and Hongkong were reported to have received instructions from the state department to advise American citizens to return home as soon as possible.

Approximately 9,000 white Americans reside in the affected areas.

At the same time, the Japanese navy was reported to have landed troops on Liu Kung island off Shantung peninsula—summer base of the British navy's China squadron. Only a short time ago, the Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek granted Britain renewal of a 10-year lease on the disputed island, but the Japanese-controlled Nanking regime declared the lease terminated.

In Washington, a renewal of talks between Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Russian Ambassador Constantine Oumansky stirred speculation of active collaboration by Washington, Moscow and London in the Far East crisis.

Conferences between Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Admiral James O. Richardson, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, who flew in from the west coast yesterday, also aroused conjecture.

Unofficially, it was considered possible that the United States might make use of the great British naval base at Singapore, on Britain's invitation.

Newly "assigned" the dominating role in the Orient by the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis, Japan has repeatedly stressed that any such American move to share Singapore with Britain would be extremely aggravating.

At Shanghai it was reported Admiral Thomas C. Hart, United States navy commander in chief in the Far East, was understood to be preparing orders to wives of United States navy men to leave for the United States as soon as possible.

The state department instructions were understood to say that American women and children and non-essential men especially should be advised to get out of the areas mentioned as soon as possible.

It was reported that some American ship might be diverted to Chinese ports to facilitate evacuation.

According to reports, the state department advised consulates that evacuation instructions should not be interpreted

Mansfield Made Examining Point for Ohio Guardsmen

700 to Undergo Physical Tests at Armory Here Oct. 15 and 16, Before Start for Camp.

Physical examinations will be given approximately 700 Ohio National Guardsmen at Mansfield armory Oct. 15 and 16, according to Capt. R. J. Nichols who announced today that Mansfield had been selected as one of the five examining centers in the state.

Arrangements have been made to handle all examinations at the armory. There will be five regular army physicians and ten National Guard doctors sent here to conduct the examinations. Nichols said, with the laboratory staff of Mansfield General hospital doing the laboratory work.

Assigned to the Mansfield armory for examinations will be the Service battery of the 134th F. A., the band and the medical detail of the 135th, all from Bucyrus; the second battalion headquarters and combat train of the 134th, from Galion; the infantry units from Ashland, Shreve, Wooster and Marion, and Battery D, 134th, of Mansfield.

Examinations will start at 7 a. m., Nichols said and must be finished within two days.

Announcement was made last week that original plans for mobilization had been changed and all Ohio guard units will mobilize at their local armories, shipping directly thence to Fort Shelby.

NEW YORK—(AP)—George Scalise, Italian-born racketeer who became president of the Building Service Employes International Union, was given two days of grace today to confer with his lawyer before he starts a 10 to 20-year sentence in Sing Sing prison for stealing union funds.

The lawyer, Martin W. Littleton, jr., had not revealed whether he planned an appeal.

BURN TO DEATH

Nine Girls Lose Lives In Kentucky School Fire.

JACKSON, Ky. —(AP)— Nine small girls were burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed a frame dormitory building at a mission school in a remote section of Breathitt county.

Twelve other little girls and six teachers at the mission which cares for orphan children in this eastern Kentucky mountain area escaped from the second floor of the building where they were sleeping.

One of the teachers, Miss Dessie Scott, 24, of Washington, Pa., was so badly burned helping rescue the children that Dr. Frank Sewell, Breathitt county health officer, said she was not expected to live.

Fred Puchee, 71, who with his wife operated the mission, also suffered serious burns.

PERFECT AUTUMN WEATHER STAYS

Perfect fall weather was on the hill today with the forecast for tomorrow as slightly warmer. Temperature at noon today was 57 degrees.

AKRON (INS)—Gus Kasch, perennial objector to everything proposed by School Superintendent R. M. Waterhouse, demanded at a school board meeting last night that members C. E. Slusser, W. B. Kester, Clarence Foust and Kurt Arnold resign because they attended a "secret meeting" called by Waterhouse.

Honesty Keeps Chicagoan Busy Returning Money

CHICAGO—Honesty may be the best policy, but it's keeping Harold Freeman mighty busy.

While employed by a Chicago fur company some time ago, he found a $100 bill in a coat and returned it to the owner.

Two months ago he paid for a $150 bank draft, but received one for $250. He sent it back.

Last week he exchanged $100 in small denomination notes at the same bank for a $100 bill. He discovered later the teller had given him a $1,000 bill.

Wearily, he sent the $900 back.

BULLETIN

CROSLEY FIELD, CINCINNATI—Bill Werber's wild throw to first after he knocked down Charlie Gehringer's single in the third inning, permitted Billy Sullivan to score the first run of the seventh and deciding game of the world series today, giving Detroit an early 1 to 0 lead over Cincinnati.

CROSLEY FIELD, CINCINNATI (AP) Big "Buck" Newsom, Detroit's two-time winner over Cincinnati, was called back after a one-day rest to oppose the Reds today in the seventh and deciding game of the World series

Paul Derringer, who has split even in two starts against the Tigers, was Manager "Deacon Bill" McKechnie's mound choice for the all-important fray.

Skipper Del Baker of the Detroits kept his selection secret until a half hour before the game started. He had wavered between Newsom and Tommy Bridges, winner of the third game of the series, but finally decided that Newsom who has allowed only two runs in his 18 innings, was the best bet.

Newsom beat the Reds, 7 to 2, in the opener, and came back Sunday at Detroit with a three-hitter to triumph by 8 to 0. Derringer was batted out in the first game, but

BULLETIN

LONDON — (U.P.) — Prime Minister Winston Churchill today warned that the danger of invasion of Britain persists and that "the enemy has enough shipping and barges to throw half a million men on to the salt water" between the continent and the British Isles.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—At least 25 persons were killed and 60 injured by British bombers during an intensified aerial attack on Berlin during the night, informed sources reported today, and the death toll may eventually prove considerably higher.

An unestimated number of persons were reported seriously injured in the raid, the worst the German capital has yet suffered.

Five hospitals were struck, German officials said, in addition to warehouses, railway lines and a number of apartment houses.

Three of the British raiders were reported shot down by the furious fire put up by anti-aircraft batteries. All three planes crashed in the city itself or in the immediate outskirts.

The high command reported that 32 British planes were downed in air fighting over England yesterday and acknowledged the loss of 13 Nazi aircraft.

Berliners, meanwhile, were kept virtually in the dark as to what Adolf Hitler might be planning in the Balkans, to which attention was turned yesterday by reports that German troops had entered Rumania.

Official sources said these reports were "premature," but from a tangle of half-smiling statements by various German spokesmen it was gleaned that at least a few Nazi soldiers already were established in Rumania.

A spokesman said, however, that Germany takes seriously her commitment to protect Rumania's frontiers against further encroachment.

Neutral observers speculated

STRIKES: Labor Disputes In Rumania Bring Call For Army

(By International News Service)

BUDAPEST—Labor disorders broke out today throughout Rumania, forcing the Bucharest government to rush troops to various localities to suppress strikes and other forms of violence.

The workers of a great many Rumanian industrial plants have struck, demanding 50 per cent or more in wage increases to meet the rapidly mounting food prices, and in the coal district of Anina the workers are demanding a 100 per cent wage boost.

(Authoritative quarters in Berlin characterized as "premature" a statement yesterday that German troops already were on the way into Rumania. Berlin said today Germany plans to dispatch a model army to Rumania soon "to rebuild and train" that country's army.

(The London Evening Standard, in a Belgrade dispatch, quoted military attaches in the Hungarian capital as stating that between 10,000 and 45,000 Nazi troops already are in Rumania. The first Germans to enter Rumania did so

Hints for Care of Fingernails

By MME. QUI VIVE

Here is what every girl should know about the little pink shells on her finger tips. It is just as well for her to understand that they are health barometers in a way. When they have a rosy color it is proof that circulation gets up and travels. When they are brittle she probably isn't sticking to a balanced diet and the poor little claws are starving for the right kind of food. Blue nails may signify that the heart is not strong.

The fingernail consists of four parts: the free edge or eave, the body of the nail, the half moon that is known as the lunula, and the root which extends under the flesh.

At the base of the nail is the matrix. It is a busy little factory forming new scales or cells that push forth as the nail grows; these scales overlap so delicately and perfectly that the surface is as smooth as satin.

The outer surface of the nail is convex, the inner surface is concave, providing a perfect fit. Without these pretty talons we would suffer much discomfort and inconvenience.

In the matrix, or nail forming-substance, there is a complete equipment of nerves, lymph and blood vessels. The nail itself is nerveless tissue, like hair and the feather of birds. It is transparent, getting its coloring from the underlying flesh. A severe injury to the matrix may cause the loss of the nail or the appearance of one that is ridged or otherwise deformed. That is why it is not wise to push back the flesh with a metal instrument. To keep the cuticle detached cream it every night, run the orange wood stick under it after the fingers have been soaked in warm soap suds.

White spots are usually produced by a minor injury to the matrix. No sense fretting about them; they soon grow out and disappear. Nothing will remove them except time.

It is important that the fingernails be kept scrupulously clean because the eaves are favorite tenements for bacteria. Mothers of small children should keep that fact in mind. Metal cleaners are taboo because they make rough the inner surface of the eaves and dust clings stubbornly.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Has—has anything happened?" she queried.

"Nothing that should alarm you," I told her easily, and was glad that I believed myself to be speaking the truth.

"Phil telephoned me an hour ago, asking to see my father. Father, in turn, asked him to come with Otto and remain until the siege of the farmhouse shall be terminated. Phil has just come from my father's room, and requested the interview with you."

"Was he agitated?" she asked, with intent eyes upon my face.

"You know how poised he is," I evaded. "I never have been able to tell what he really is thinking."

"Then he was worried," she said with conviction, and I knew that her keen perceptions had pierced my evasion.

"That, no doubt, you will be able to find out as soon as you see him," I assured her, and she nodded a grave assent.

"I shall discover it," she said confidently, and then lifted my wrist and glanced at my watch.

"A half hour, you said?" she interrogated. "I shall be ready. But where do you wish me to see him? I am afraid to disturb Olina. She suffered so from that headache."

"There is no need to disturb her," I said, reflecting a bit heartlessly that Olina's headache, which I knew was only an affair of the girl's nerves taking toll of her frustration, gave me a good excuse for excluding the young princess from the revelation concerning the emeralds.

"Phil is domiciled in my room," I said, "and, as you know, it makes an admirable sitting room. You can see him there. I will come and fetch you when the half hour is up."

"Thank you," she said, and I spoke again, quickly.

"I have another message for you," I said, "from my father."

She turned a sober, attentive face to me.

"Philip has no idea that your emeralds have been found," I said, "and my father just asked me to tell you that he has lifted the ban he put upon your telling Philip about their recovery."

"Oh! how wonderful!" she said. "He will be so glad to hear that, my poor Philip. He was so worried because I was so concerned over my penniless condition. I wonder if it will be possible for Philip to see them."

"That I cannot tell you," I said, although I was virtually certain that my father had planned to have the queen herself exhibit her restored necklace to her fiance.

But Olga still hesitated. I knew there was another query upon her lips and dreaded it.

"Olina?" she asked at last. "Does his ban still extend to her, or may I tell her also?"

"I am sorry," I returned, "but he did not mention her in any way."

She gave a little sigh.

"I shall follow his wishes exactly," she said. "After all, if only one can know, I would rather it would be Phil. He will rejoice with me in the financial independence the recovery of the jewels will give me. Olina would only grieve, though she would not show it. But from babyhood she has been brought up to believe that the emerald necklace would be hers when I had finished with it. She will hate to have it sold."

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, October 9

AN EVENTFUL day with much stirring of a thrilling and most dynamic character is read from the predominant astral influences. Matters of a most exciting and unpredictable nature are likely to arise like a bolt from the blue and end, in their final adjustments, probably in the far-distant future. This radical force may call for a complete spading-up or abrupt about face in plans, objectives, surroundings and associations, but all happy and breathtaking.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of whirlwind adventures, precipitated without inkling from sources both breathtaking, surprising and mysterious. The element of the curious, subtle, obscure and intriguing dominates all departments of life, with radical and far reaching effect on the future and its fortunes. Complete change in plans and purpose may be looked for.

A child born on this day may be the possessor of many forces, talents and capacities of high-powered intensity. It will be energetic, inventive, original, bold and adventurous. Probably with such audacity, independence and courage as to precipitate it into the limelight. It will have keen intuitions and far vision of a subtle or mysterious quality.

New York City's highest fire loss was in 1922, when $22,743,195 damage was done.

"The Authority on Authorities"

CONSERVE YOUR ASSETS

When a declarer possesses a finessing position against a king, with the ace, queen, jack and ten in his holdings, he can usually afford to lead one of those honors toward the ace. But if he lacks the ten, he is usually better off in leading a small one, which sometimes will have the effect of conserving his assets.

When the dummy went down, it looked very much to South as if he was in too high a contract, especially after the defenders ripped off their book with three tricks in diamonds. He had to win three finesses to make his contract, but it could have been done by proper play.

After the third diamond, East led the club 4 and the Q won the first finesse. Next the heart J was led. West covered and the A won. That lead of the J was sound because the declarer also had the Q and 10 on his side. But his foot slipped into unsoundness when he then led the spade J from the dummy. The K, of course, went on, forcing the A. When the Q was then played and East showed out, South knew he had beaten himself. The 10 was now set up for West, who set the contract with it.

Had South not reckoned that "it made no difference" whether or not he led the J or a little one to the Q, he would have succeeded in making his contract.

(Dealer: North. East-west vulnerable.)

After the lead of the club 10 against South's 3-No Trumps, why should declarer, after winning with the J, immediately lead a diamond from his own hand instead of planning to finesse the suit?

This Letter

FOR ALL VOTERS AND PARENTS!

Sincerely believing that the Election for President for Third Term being the most important and vital since Civil War Time campaign of President Lincoln in that it will be a start to weaken and finally destroy the FOUNDATION that has held our Republic together of free men and women and a government by the people for all the people, therefore this letter to you as below, Citizens and Parent Voters of Mansfield and Richland County.

Sincerely yours,
HENRY L. GOEMANN.

The Almighty God created this wonderful and beautiful World of ours, then created man and woman, with mind and brains and the functions to reproduce and said you are ALL created equal, as well as those to come hereafter, and you are the TRUSTEES to carry on and develop.

Then he gave Moses and his Ten Commandments engraved on tablets of stone, followed by Jesus Christ to teach us LOVE and HUMILITY.

Through human nature and frailities, we have developed "SELFISHNESS — GREED — POWER and HATRED" — as a basis for ruling the world.

North America is a part of God's wonderful world and our forefathers established in the United States a Republic with a Constitution protecting each citizen, giving freedom of Speech, freedom of Press, freedom of Church and right of every citizen to aspire to hold office by the FREE vote of his fellow citizens, even to that of The President of the United States and that incentive should not be abolished—by a subterfuge or political control.

We have in the United States spent billions of dollars for EDUCATION and are continuing to, which should induce young men and women to prepare themselves for service to their country and for government positions, from the lowest to highest positions, for with more than one million workers now in the employment of our government, we must have our workers with high ideals, moral standards and ability and the incentive to give our American System a high standard and not just a desire by the worker for any job through any controlled political organization, whether LOCAL, STATE or NATIONAL.

It is desirable to have two responsible political parties but, unfortunately, this is not the case at this time as, owing to license of speech, we have permitted many subversive elements of "isms" to becloud our judgment.

Democracy has grown tired and soft: it is not democracy in principle that is failing, it is that men and women are failing democracy, as shown by Europe, especially FRANCE.

Congress under our Constitution has the power to make our laws and should not delegate that power to the President and Bureaus of various kinds.

We need FORTHRIGHT, STRONG men for Congress, whose views are in line with the Constitution and who will enthuse our citizens by their example to do their duty as citizens, or else democracy will fail.

Mr. Roosevelt in his acceptance speech for third term stated, "If our government should pass to other hands next January — UNTRIED HANDS—INEXPERIENCED HANDS, we can merely hope and pray that they will not substitute appeasement and compromise with those who seek to destroy all democracies everywhere including here"—thus placing himself as the only Indispensable, Loyal man in our country.

What a slap at our education and insult to our capable and intelligent manhood, whether Business Men, Bankers, Laborers or Farmers.

PARENTS---

Do you want your children to aspire to become successful men and women and not lose their incentive in life?

President Washington Believed so Earnestly in our American system of government—a government by Law and not by Men — that he declined a third term when the people were unanimous in wishing him to continue in office.

Now to look forward and see an unwritten law and custom in practice for one hundred and fifty (150) years shattered by a President demanding a third term, saying "I am the indispensable one," is in my judgment not true, for no one is INDISPENSABLE —he may be MISSED but we are INTERDEPENDENT on the many, NOT DEPENDENT on ONE.

The proper way is to amend the Constitution by vote of all the people whether the term of a President of the United States shall be for two consecutive terms, or for a period of six years, or unlimited.

Let us make good on the claim of equal opportunity, keeping open the "Door of Opportunity to All" who, by a FREE vote of the majority and not by a minority, are elected to office.

Against a possible unlimited continuance of term of holding office for President through waiving a third term NOW, may not a selfish incentive of some future unscrupulous politician for POWER deprive us of our FREEDOM.

To what incentive and goal will you as Parents at home and Educators through the schools and churches LEAD and GUIDE the children and young men and women along this line?

Our Republic, whose Constitution gives and protects freedom for all and permits individual success, must have sincere support and strong, honest men and women LEADERS.

Should the above meet your approval, please go to the election booth and deposit your ballot AGAINST Mr. Roosevelt for President for Third Term.

NO THIRD TERM FOR ANY MAN---

North Supplies Most Conscripts In First Draft Call

ENLISTMENT OF SOUTHERN MEN REDUCES QUOTA

400,000 Summoned to Arms In Initial Selection; Leniency Ordered.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The industrial north will supply most of the nation's draftees this year while very few men from southern states will be forced to answer the first conscription call.

Officials indicated today that many rural towns, notably in the south, will be wholly exempt from the draft for the time being since men from those communities already are serving in the armed forces.

Draft quota figures will be announced shortly for each state. They will be designed to bring some 1,400,000 men under arms—a peacetime record—after the first group of 400,000 conscripts is called up.

Each state will be allotted a proportion of the total based on estimates of the number of men available in the state. Then credits will be given for every man from that state now serving in the army, navy, National Guard, or in active reserves.

In the southern states, where voluntary enlistments have been high, these deductions will make up virtually the entire number required. In some areas within the states, draft officials said, the men already in service will be greater than the quotas.

After the governors of the states receive the figures, they are to sub-allot them out to the various local areas, again on the basis of available manpower.

According to latest approximate figures there are about 949,000 men now under arms or in reserves, and officials expect this to reach 1,000,000 soon without any draftees.

Those now serving are divided as follows: Army, 340,0000, National Guard, 225,000, navy, 152,000, army reserve, 123,000, marine corps, 36,000, naval reserve, 57,000 and marine reserve, 16,000.

Completion of the quota figures is the next major job of the draft board, which late yesterday released its official instructions regarding the classification of the men who must register one week from tomorrow.

These instruction called on the local boards to be as lenient as possible in deferring men with dependents and men who cannot be readily replaced in their civilian jobs.

While a student at Mansfield Senior high school, Sharp was active in athletics, having played basketball and baseball. He was also winner of an oratorical contest against Oberlin high school.

House Bucks Campaign Recess of Congress

Handing out matches with candidate's pictures on the packet is the great pastime right now, and once in a while candidates get their wires crossed. The other night in Shelby when a number of candidates attended an affair, Ralph Hughes, candidate for county treasurer, handed out some of his campaign matches. One of the recipients told Hughes outright that he was voting for Charles Payne, Hughes' opponent. The man was Payne's father-in-law.

Most of us have to put up with a lot of petty annoyances during the course of the day's work, but none probably so strange as the one Virginia Palmer, secretary at Johnny Appleseed, has been struggling with. For the past few weeks, Miss Palmer has heard the incessant chirp of a cricket in the office where she works, and a prolonged search has failed to divulge the hiding place of the insect. She finally decided this week that the cricket has, in some way, gotten inside the wall and decided to stay there.

BOYS ESCAPE

Sherwood Studies Transfer of Youths to Reformatory.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood, commenting on the frequency of escapes form the Lancaster boys' industrial school, said today:

"We may have to transfer some more boys to the Mansfield reformatory or impose greater discipline at Lancaster."

Records disclosed that 169 of the school's inmates had escaped since Jan. 1, but of these 118 were returned. Some were sent to Mansfield as incorrigibles.

"Any disciplinary measures are up to Harold Chavs, school superintendent," said Sherwood, adding he had not discussed the matter with Hays recently.

NAVY RECRUITING UP, OFFICER TO BE HERE TWO DAYS A WEEK

Word was received here today that a Navy Recruiting station will be maintained in the postoffice building each Wednesday and Thursday, beginning this week, to facilitate the handling of increased enlistments throughout this district.

During the past four months, 68 navy recruits have been supplied by Erie, Huron, Ashland, Richland, Crawford, Morrow, and Knox counties, which comprise this district. This figure is 15 more than the entire previous fiscal year's total of 53.

The nation-wide emphasis on defense and preparedness, coupled with the opportunities offered by the Navy, are cited by recruiting officials as reasons contributing to the increase.

Twenty-six men will be enlisted from this district during the first half of October. The total for the month, which breaks all single month records, may be boosted by an additional quota.

Twelve recruits from Mansfield, Shelby, Willard, and Plymouth left today for Great Lakes, Ill., to begin their training.

Those leaving from Mansfield today are: Steven J. Thoma, 50 Gibson avenue; Edward C. Duncan, 230 Sturges avenue; Donald J. Geiger, R. D. 6, Jack C. Small, 82 West Second street; Wilbur D. Linn, 246 Rhein street.

Also leaving today are: Lester P. Correll, 136 North Adams street, Leland E. Snively, 233 South Market street, and Glen R. Wise, 207 South Wood street, Loudonville; James W. SENATE PLANS TO QUIT WORK ON WEDNESDAY

Series of Three-Day Recesses Announced By Barkley 'If Necessary.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Amid growing indication of a house deadlock on the recess question, senate majority leader Barkley announced today that his chamber would quit work about Wednesday—regardless.

Barkley said that, if the house failed to agree to a long recess, the senate would commence a series of three-day recesses with the understanding that no business would be transacted until Nov. 18—13 days after the general election—without notice from the leaders.

The senate recesses would be limited to three days because neither house may recess longer without the consent of the other.

In the house, Democratic and Republican leaders were at loggerheads over the way a recess should be taken, and how long it should last.

As far as a recess was concerned, progress yesterday put the calendars of both houses in good shape from a legislative viewpoint.

Congressional action was completed on a $34,500,000 defense measure authorizing a series of rivers and harbors development projects. The bill now goes to the White House.

The $150,000,000 defense housing program likewise moved ahead. The senate approved a conference committee's report on minor senate-house differences over the enabling legislation, and the house was expected to follow suit today.

The senate passed a bill authorizing banks to disburse some $2,500,000,000 of "frozen" foreign funds on deposit here to payees certified by accredited foreign representatives recognized by the state department.

The house meanwhile approved and dispatched to the senate a bill vesting the courts with broad powers to stay eviction for unpaid rent of dependents of men serving with the armed forces. The veterans administration also would be authorized to guarantee payment of premiums on draftees insurance policies up to $5,000 face value.

FULL HOUSE

A full house was assured today for the appearance here tomorrow of Kenneth T. Downs, International News Service war correspondent, at a joint meeting of Mansfield clubs.

Reservations for the luncheon meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel reached 200 today, the capacity of the ballroom, it was announced. Attending will be members of the Kiwanis, Rotary, Gyro, Optimist, Co-op and Shrine clubs. Downs is being brought here by The News-Journal.

Because of the size of the crowd, and the desire to give Downs as much time as necessary to tell the story of the fall of France before the German blitzkrieg, the meeting will start promptly at 11:45, it was announced, and admission will be only by ticket. Non-ticket holders may hear Downs, however, from the hotel mezzanine.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

MISS MIDNIGHT'S DIARY:

Dear Diary: Last week was the hectic, harried week in which Mr. and Mrs. Manhattan and all the little Manhattans picked up their belongings and a new lease and moved around the block.

All activity, however, was not confined to the private domicile, for the cabarets, hotel rooms and supper clubs enjoyed a slightly phenomenal siege of occupancy.

Of course, everyone has said that this was going to be a great year for the boys who make money on stuffed shirts and stuffed night owls (Boy, call me a taxidermist!), but last week-end was the first concrete cash evidence of Things to Come.

From all appearances and from annexed reports I would say that Saturday was a warm New Year's Eve. Wine, women and song bubbled with all the abandon of an exciting holiday and the Fall season was officially launched to the tune of popping champagne bottles, reckless rhumbas, and night club openings.

La Conga holds the pulse of dinner-to-closing activities and on Saturday night New York's pulse beat considerably faster. Eddie LeBaron played a rhumba tune I had never heard before—not as a rhumba, at any rate.

It turned out to me maraccas version of "Sonny Boy," all because Al Jolson was ringsiding—nay, ring-sighing!—with Joan Marshall, his current ringside-kick.

Blue Sunday has achieved oblivion—in New York at any rate. A glimpse into Mario's Hurricane Sunday evening convinced me that the After Dark industry is now on a seven-night footing. The elegance of the Hurricane's tropicana suffered a slight relapse in the person of one Anthony Galento, the argumentative anthropoid, who boasts much less poise than avoirdupois. Within roundhouse reach of Tony another ring gladiator, Jack Dempsey, shook to the ad liberties of Rome Vincent, who quipped:

"I dreamed I fought Dempsey one night. When I woke up, I was still unconscious!"

Ears were poised at the Algonquin Monday lunchtime for one of Robert Benchley's bon mots and it wasn't long in coming. Frank Case asked him if he had slept well the night before and Benchley, one of the Algonquin's most loyal tenants, leered in reply:

"Look here, Frank," he said, "I don't mind ghosts sharing a room with me, but when they keep me awake all night making me read scripts, I'm through!"

Among the ear-poisers in the Oak Room at the time were Blanche Ring, Ilka Chase, Arthur Kober, Ramon Novarro, Lucy Monroe, Anna May Wong, Joan Edwards, Rex Beach and Hendrik van Loon, who by this time should be wearing a little badge for perfect attendance.

In the evening, J. Edgar Hoover, Sonja Henie and Dan Topping, Lawson Little and Viola Dana were witnesses to the ribbing Joan Bennett's hat of feathers evoked from Messrs. White, Hyers and Harrington at the 18 Club.

Mr. White remarked that Miss Bennett looked good in feathers, "but then what chicken didn't?"

The funniest gag of the evening was the trio's repeated request for a certain embarrassed ringsider to take a bow. "Will the bum in the tan gabardine suit take a bow?" they kept asking. And he kept taking bows, unmindful of his sartorial miscasting.

The other night I dropped into the Ruban Bleu, which was having its season's premiere. Vernon MacFarlane can take another deep bow, because his new decor at the Ruban with its satinish and patent leather walls, makes it one of the sleekest and choicest (huh?) spot in town.

William Saroyan, having the time of his life, stayed from opening to closing without writing a play all night. Martha Raye was properly quiet at a table with Lela Rogers, Don Loper and George Lloyd, and Betty Allen dropped in after her evening's chores at the Beachcomer to meet her special beau. Tamara Geva appeared in a startling-striped creation which Mr. MacFarlane remarked made her look "as though she were scared by El Morocco.

I dropped into the Coq Rouge for dinner and for another portion of Hollace Shaw, who was still singing "All the Things You Are," and better than anyone you ever heard. Mitzi Green, Raoul Pene DuBois, Norman Bel Geddes, Roy Larsen and Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett evidently thought so, too. Maybe that was one number Mr. Tibbett never personally manipulated.

The big opening, and very social, too, occurred at the Iridium Room of the St. Regis, where a dandy ice cream show was served up at a benefit party for the Musicians' Fund.

The St. Regis is the Vincent Astor tepee, the Musicians' Fund is the ex-Mrs. Astor's favorite charity, but she wasn't there and Vincent was off on his honeymoon.

Outstanding moment of the evening was noied when Marc Connolly appeared out-foxed in a fox trot with Tilly Losch. Loretta Young and Tom Lewis, who have a habit of coming to every first night, turned more than their usual quota of eyes.

State Three Deep?

Ohio's Powerful Line and Pass Defense Appeared Weak in Buck Victories.

COLUMBUS— (UP) —Ohio State's boast of strength "three deep" in its football machine was met with arched eyebrows around the Big Ten conference today as Northwestern quietly prepared to carry on where Purdue left off against the Buckeye team

Francis Schmidt became one mighty uneasy coach in the fourth quarter last Saturday when he saw the plucky Purdue Boilermakers tie up the game against his powerful outfit.

He pulled out the subs which he had sprinkled generously in the lineup and sent back the regulars. But it took the toe of a tackle, Charley Maag, blond Sandusky giant, to win the game on a field goal with 19 seconds left to go, 17-14

As against Pittsburgh, Ohio State had the weight margin. However, this failed to stop the revived team of Boilermakers which came on the field in the third period fired by Coach Mal Edwards' words of encouragement.

The Ohio State line was pierced time after time by the spirited Purdue team But the Bucks' passing defense appeared even more weak. Sparked by the beautiful passing of Mike Beyelene, Purdue's star back from Massillon, the Boilermaker gained 120 yards on passes, mostly in the second half. Ohio State tried only seven, four of which were good for a total gain of 72 yards

Ohio State will very likely be bolstered by Jim Strausbaugh, regular left halfback who has been out with a sprained ankle. But his replacement Dick Fisher, the Columbiana clipper, turned in one of the best performances on the field against Purdue.

Rolling over Syracuse, 40 to 0, was a tonic for Northwestern, although as a victory it was unimportant. Return to form of Bill DeCorrevont who had his appendix removed in July, was a cheering note.

Week-end results indicated Ohio State Minnesota and Michigan still deserve their rating as conference title favorites Indiana dropped temporarily from the list with ragged play against Texas Wisconsin's sophomores presaged improvement for the Badgers. Illinois came up with three forward passing threats against Bradley and Iowa successfully intermixed its new running game against outclassed South Dakota

Games this week pit Ohio State at Northwestern Wisconsin at Iowa, Southern California at Illinois, Nebraska at Indiana Michigan at Harvard and Purdue at Michigan State

Baseball Ballet? No---World Series Double Play

This looks like a graceful dance number but is really part of double-play action by the Cincinnati Reds as they took the sixth game, 4-0, to tie the world series count at three-all with the Detroit Tigers. Barney McCosky of the Tigers is shown being thrown out in the sixth in a Frank McCormick to Billy Myers to Frank McCormick double play which also put out Charley Gehringer. Game was played in Crosley Field, Cincinnati, before a capacity crowd.

Buck Faces Paul

Newsom Hits Firing Line With Less Than 48 Hours of Rest.

By GAYLE TALBOT

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Two exhausted teams brought out their last tired pitching resources today for the seventh and deciding struggle of the 1940 world series at Crosley Field

For the Detroit Tigers it promised to be Buck Newsom, whose seemingly bottomless store of heart and strength already had carried him to two victories in the series.

If asked by Manager Del Baker to make one more effort, it meant that Newsom was going on the firing line for the second time within 48 hours

And for the Cincinnati Reds, trying to give the National league its first championship since the St. Louis Cardinals beat Detroit in 1934, it was big Paul Derringer again. Derringer beat the Tigers three days ago in Detroit, so he had one more day's rest than Newsom.

But neither veteran had the rest he needed, and it was an open question whether Newsom, in particular, could sustain for one more nine-inning stretch the fire and stamina he had when he pitched "one more for dad" two days ago

They say that when a pitcher passes the 30-year-line his muscles need a couple of days to get the tiredness out and then another day to recover from their soreness, and then maybe another day just for good measure. So both Newsom and Derringer will be going against nature in their final tense duel

Manager Del Baker of the Tigers had one possible alternative to starting his over-worked ace, and some thought he might take it He had the even more ancient Tommy Bridges who pitched and won the third game of the series.

Tommy is about a once-a-week hurler these days, but Baker could try him just for size, so to speak, and figure on rushing Newsom in there the moment Bridges showed signs of fraying.

Otherwise the two clubs that have been battling evenly for nearly a week go into the deciding game exactly where they started and with the identical line-ups that opposed each other in the first contest last Wednesday

Ernie Lombardi, the Reds' slugging catcher, still was sitting disconsolately on the bench with a sprained ankle, and his replacement, 40-year-old Jimmy Wilson, was aching in every muscle and joint

"If I get through this one," said Jim, "I'm hanging up the old glove"

Newsom, if he was Baker's candidate, had a chance today to win this third world series victory and equal a record held by only five other pitchers. The others who captured three games in a world series, that did not go over seven games were Christy Mathewson, Jack Coombs, Urban Faber, Babe Adams and Stanley Coveleskie. Coveleskie, in 1920, was the last to do it.

This has been a pitchers' world series from the start. Each of the six winning chukkers has gone the route, and not one of them has been seriously extended Not a game has been really close. When Bucky Walters shut out the Tigers, 4 to 0, yesterday with five scattered hits for his second triumph, he only followed the general pattern.

Schoolboy Rowe for the second time didn't have a thing on the ball. Where it took the Reds over three innings to knock him from the box in the second game of the series, they disposed of him in the first frame yesterday. Four of the first five Cincinnati batters hit safely, and the other sacrificed, bringing in two runs and giving Walters all the lead he needed. Another fine job of relief pitching by John Gorsica of the Tigers was wasted

The plate umpire, "Red" Ormsby, said he never in his life saw a pitcher with finer control and more stuff than Walters had yesterday Hank Greenberg didn't get a ball out of the infield all afternoon

And Walters just to make his day complete, hit a powerful home run over the left field fence in the eighth inning for his team's final score.

The Reds' infield, which looked absolutely terrible in the first game of the series and made National league followers sick at heart, improved steadily as the play-off progressed and yesterday made it plain why the team ran away from seven other clubs in its circuit

Good as was Walters' pitching his support was even greater.

Every time the Tigers looked like making trouble, one or another of the Cincinnati infield came up with a spectacular play to throttle the threat. Eddie Joost made a stop and throw at second base off Bruce Campbell in the seventh inning that ranked with the great outfield catch Jimmy Ripple made in the previous day's game at Detroit.

Bill Werber's play at third base for the Reds has been the finest thing in the series. The Reds had made nine double plays through yesterday's game, and Werber made spectacular stops to start several that were the most vital. He was leading both sides in hitting, too.

Hey, Golfers, Look Here!

Here's something for all you golfers—especially those whose creaky backs protest each time they stoop over at each hole and place that tee in the ground and the ball on it. James Shouse of Moline, Ill., has invented a mechanical tee which requires that the golfer only need drop his or her ball into a hopper, step on a plunger and then watch his ball emerge from underground, perfectly teed on a rubber tee. Inventor Shouse is handling the pail above. The tee and plunger is in front of golfer at right. Height of the ball can be adjusted.

Bob Pastor May Never Fight Again

NEW YORK — (INS) — Heavyweight Bob Pastor, of New York, probably will never be able to fight again, his manager, Jimmy Johnson, announced today.

The manager said "injuries caused by foul blows delivered by Light Heavyweight Champion Billy Conn" were the reason why Pastor probably would have to retire. Conn knocked out the New York boxer last September.

Johnson said Pastor's weight has dropped to 176 pounds. Johnson also criticized the New York athletic commission for permitting boxers to fight under a "no foul" ruling.

Losers Make News

Piqua Scores First Victory In Three Games; Tigers Continue Streak.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — While Ohio's scholastic football leaders roll merrily along the unbeaten trail, some of the losers are producing news, too.

Piqua, after failing to score a point in three straight games, broke the ice to swamp Greenville 24-0. Greenville though, has won only one game in three years, its opener against Class B Bradford.

Chillicothe remained without a touchdown this season by losing to Portsmouth, 27-0.

Middletown suffered its worst football defeat in more than two decades as Toledo Scott swamped the Middies 39-6. A 1918 Middletown graduate Bob Rettig coached the Scott eleven

Steubenville and Lancaster fell from the state's undefeated list by losing to Youngstown Campbell Memorial and Marietta, respectively The win ranked Marietta with Newark and Zanesville as favorites for the Central Ohio league title now held by Zanesville

Lisbon's Blue Devils won their first game in two years by defeating East Palestine 20-14

Massillon's terrific scoring machine gathered more speed as it smothered Erie (Pa) East 74-0 for the team's 27th consecutive victory. So far this year the Tigers have counted 245 points in four games while blanking the opposition.

Unbeaten Ohio teams besides Massillon include Canton McKinley, Washington Court House, Youngstown Campbell Memorial, Mansfield Shelby, and Newark—all winners of four—Fairmount, winner of three, and Alliance, which has won three and tied one.

Artie Garrison, fleet McKinley halfback, got three touchdowns against Sandusky to run his season's total to 78 in his bid for the scholastic scoring lead.

While the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailers' Orphans' Home team in Xenia continued to knock off strong foes in the race for Class B honors, Bellville was eliminated from the unbeaten list by Loudonville, which scored a 9-6 victory.

WALKER FLOORED, BUT COMES BACK TO WIN

BALTIMORE, Md.—(INS)—Although floored in the third round of his 10-round fight with Tony Musto, of Chicago Jack "Buddy" Walker, Columbus Negro and Ohio heavyweight mitt champ, today held another victory. Walker was given the decision after he piled up an impressive margin in the remaining seven rounds.

ISSUES REDUCE THEIR PRICES IN MART TODAY

Buying Timidity Continues In Tradings; Commodities, Bonds Are Mixed.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK.—Buying timidity continued in today's stock market and leading issues generally reduced their prices by small fractions.

Lacking much support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, U. S. Rubber, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case Deere, United Aircraft, Sperry and Texas Corp.

Bonds were narrow and commodities a shade mixed.

While the business scene remained as a cheerful market factor brokers said, the war and politics still were confusing.

Boardrooms noted forecasts from statistical quarters that domestic industrial production on a per capita basis this year would at least equal the 1929 level and might exceed it.

It was pointed out, though, that this picture could be changed by a quick cessation of the European conflict which would pinch off this country's armament program and halt purchases by the British.

25 KILLED IN BERLIN RAIDS

RAF Stages Intensified Air Attack on Nazi Capital; 3 Planes Shot Down.

that Germany might be planning to use the kingdom as a stepping stone for a new threat against Turkey, which is pledged to fight with Britain in the event of any aggression in the eastern Mediterranean and ultimately against the Suez canal.

Nazis Smash at London In Raids

LONDON (AP) Waves of Nazi planes underscored German statements that London would be wiped out by smashing at the city today in four swift raids which caught the traffic-thronged capital during morning rush hours and took uncounted toll of dead and injured.

Buildings along central city streets were wrecked by huge explosives which screamed down as crowds dashed for shelter.

While the Luftwaffe swept in for the daylight blows, England's long range southeast coast guns shelled the French coast near Bologne where mysterious, smoke screened Nazi movements were detected overnight.

German guns quickly took up the cross-channel firing and explosions shook both sides of the strait of Dover. German shells smashed into Dover at intervals of three minutes. Columns of smoke and debris spouted into the air on the French side, marking British hits.

High over the arching shells, at least three formations of Nazi raiders streaked up the Thames toward London. The third flight was reported turned back by British fighting planes, but some of the first planes got through to the capital.

Explosions in the city were thought by Londoners at first to be the sound of their own anti-aircraft guns, starting a new barrage after a short period of quiet after the all-night German raids. Later they could tell the explosions were from bombs plummeting down from planes riding so high over the city they could not be seen.

As increasing numbers of British planes appeared overhead the first wave of raiders raced away, and the ground guns were quiet, their crews alert for the next attack.

On the ground heavy explosions had spread new ruin throughout London, and successive reports raised the toll of dead and injured in the busy streets where big bombs fell.

Some store fronts crumpled into masses of rubble burying those who took shelter there.

All the passengers of a wrecked bus were believed killed.

McGREGOR GREETS HIS FRIENDS IN HIS HOME DISTRICT

As your Representative in Congress, I feel I am speaking for the people of the 17th District when I insist that Congress should remain in session during these trying times. "Eternal vigilance is the price of peace," and even though this is an election year, I feel that it is far less important that I campaign for re-election than that I stay in Washington on the job, to prevent, as far as I can, any person or persons from involving our country in the European conflict.

Even though my duties here in Washington prevent me from talking to you personally, I trust you will not forget me on Nov. 5.

J. HARRY McGREGOR,

Your present Congressman

17th District, Ohio.

(Political Adv).

Bricker Betrayed The Sportmen

When Mr. Bricker was a candidate for Governor in 1938, he made sweeping promises to the sportsmen of Ohio, one of which was to take conservation out of politics. Running true to form, he broke all those promises with a cruel disregard that is appalling. He has proven repeatedly that his word is no good.

Martin L. Davey

Bricker's first action on this subject was to pass some "whipper" legislation under the sanctimonious pretense of creating a non-partisan Conservation Council. His appointments were those of disappointing, except two or three. He stacked that Council with his own "yes-men."

Instead of giving the new Conservation Council power to act according to their own judgment, Bricker immediately took personal and political control.

His next act was to appoint as Director, a [illegible] county chairman, [illegible] nothing about conservation except duck. He has no knowledge of the science and philosophy of conservation.

The present Governor's next act [illegible] efficient and capable officials and employees [illegible] out [illegible] all [illegible] who [illegible] this program.

His next [illegible] the Conservation Department with [illegible] and hangers-on [illegible]. He [illegible] of thousands of dollars of sportsmen's money on political jobs.

Instead of taking conservation out of politics, Bricker has plunged it deeper into the political mire than all the other governors of Ohio combined. His action in this matter has been positively disgraceful and dishonorable.

Bricker has set conservation in Ohio back more than ten years. He knows nothing about the purpose of conservation, and thinks of it only as a political machine. He has betrayed his trust most shamefully.

Contrast this disgusting performance of Governor Bricker with that of Governor Martin L. Davey, who has been a life-long devotee of conservation.

Governor Davey really did take conservation out of politics, and would not let politicians touch that Department. He kept the most competent employees, and hired additional ones on the basis of their knowledge and experience, without regard to politics.

Davey did more for conservation in four years, than had been done in the previous quarter of a century. He made it something real in Ohio. He sponsored a large amount of important legislation, full appropriations, scientific research, and established the greatest program of conservation activities in the history of Ohio.

The sportsmen of Ohio know Bricker broke his promises like a cheap politician, and betrayed the sportsmen. Davey was the greatest friend and promoter conservation ever had in Ohio.

U. S. ADVISES AMERICANS TO LEAVE ORIENT

Evacuation of 9,000 Citizens Planned as Britain Opens Burma Road Again.

sensationally and that Americans should be advised "quietly" to start home.

The instructions, it was understood, said that evacuation of the Japanese empire, including Korea, and the other areas was advisable in view of the uncertain conditions existing throughout the Far East.

Informants said that the state department had advised definitely that Americans return to the United States.

The Far East, it was understood, would be put under the instructions on the same basis as European countries so far as American travel and residence were concerned.

It was estimated that 9,000 Americans of native stock and 2,000 Chinese, Japanese and Filipino Americans were resident in the affected areas.

At Tokyo Great Britain today advised Japan of her decision to reopen the Burma road for arms shipments to China on Oct. 17.

An official communique issued by the foreign office said:

"Sir Robert Craigie, the British ambassador to Japan, called upon Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka this morning.

"On instructions from his government, Sir Robert advised Mr. Matsuoka that Great Britain does not see its way clear to renew the British-Japanese agreement concerning closure of the Burma road when it expires on Oct. 17."

The agreement was signed three months ago as a British gesture of appeasement to Japan.

The influential Japan Times ascribed Britain's decision to a desire to "save face" before China and to support the Chungking government as the only force resisting Japan "together with the United States."

"The decision of the British government," the newspaper said, "is unmistakable evidence that Britain is taking sides with the United States in establishing a common front against this country."

State Department Confirms Order

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government today advised American citizens in the Far East, especially women and children, to consider the advisability of returning to the United States because of disturbed conditions in that area.

State department officials said that American consuls in Japan, China and other parts of the orient had been notified to suggest to American citizens the advisability of utilizing transportation facilities now available.

This was described as a continuation of the precautionary policy of the government regarding safety of American citizens in various parts of the world.

The advice was directed especially to women and children and men not detained by essential or urgent considerations.

Churchill Tells Burma Road Plans

LONDON—(UP)—Great Britain is re-opening the Burma Road over which China received military supplies on Oct. 17, Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today in the house of commons.

Radiating confidence in a one-hour speech to commons, the prime minister said that British casualties in air raids had fallen far short of German expectations at the start of the war.

At the present rate of bombing, he said, it would take the Germans 10 years to destroy half of London's houses.

He expressed belief that the R. A. F. had inflicted greater harm on Germany's war-making capacity than Germany had inflicted on the British.

Churchill said that the R. A. F. is now stronger in fighters and bombers than when the heavy fighting started.

The German-Italian-Japanese triple alliance signed in Berlin is aimed primarily against the United States but also against South Russia, Churchill said.

threatening forces. We are fighting against the forces of federal spending, federal patronage, corrupt city machines, and smear propaganda."

The president, Willkie asserted, "not only has pushed America close to the war in Europe and Asia," but now seeks "to drag the wars of Europe and Asia into American politics."

"He tells us that he, and he alone, represents democracy," the candidate continued. "But I say that he cannot represent the Democracy that I stand for while he seeks to perpetuate his power through petty Hitlers in our own land. x x x

"That is democracy already on the way to dictatorship."

Willkie declared that Hudson county poll books for 1937 had been burned while the New Jersey legislature recently was ordering them turned over to the superintendent of elections.

"Why had they been burned?" Willkie asked. "To protect what? To save whom?

"Hague!" came a cry from many in the crowd.

Germans Explain Rumanian Action

BUCHAREST, Rumania—(U P)—German quarters said today that their troops had entered Rumania to train the Rumanian army in the German style of warfare.

They said that an agreement had been reached whereby "German training companies" were assigned to Rumania and Rumanian officers would go to Germany for military instruction. There was "no question of occupation," involved in the presence of German troops here, they said.

It was understood that at least a division of 15,000 Germans comprised the expeditionary force and that it would be distributed among such cities as Constanza, the Black Sea port; Ploesti, in the oil field district, and Brashov, 85 miles northwest of Bucharest.

The official Rumanian radio said last night that German and Rumanian troops would take positions together in certain "industrial areas," and that "the most cordial relations exist between the two armies."

There had been no announcement of the number of German troops in Rumania, or the time or manner of their arrival. Rumania has no common border with Germany. It was generally believed that the Germans had come to insure against sabotage in the British-owned oil wells.

The German general staff was understood to have established headquarters in the Stirbey Voda building here, once the headquarters for the palace guard. The Chitila building in the railroad center five miles north of Bucharest was evacuated by a Rumanian motorized regiment to make room for Germans.

Perry County Authorities Puzzled By Marriage.

NEW LEXINGTON — (UP) — Perry county authorities puzzled today over the marital status of Glenn F. Flynn, 25, Lancaster salesman, and Rose Ann Powers, his 17-year-old bride.

Mr. and Mrs. John Powers, parents of the girl, allegedly objected to the marriage because of their daughter's young age so, according to authorities, the couple got Miss Elizabeth Pace, 27, to serve as a "stand in" when the marriage license was obtained.

Prosecutor T. B. Williams had Flynn and Miss Pace jailed pending study of the unusual situation.

west on his eighth tour of national defense facilities, following a schedule that will take him through the pivotal states of Pennsylvania and Ohio, with 36 and 26 electoral votes respectively.

Next Saturday night at Dayton he will make one of the major speeches of the campaign, addressed to progress of the national defense program and broadcast over all three radio networks not only to the United States but the whole of Central and South America.

Foremost business before the president today was the excess profits tax bill, which, as finally enacted by congress, is estimated to raise over a billion dollars in new revenue, effectively block the making of any quick "war fortunes," and help defense industries to retire their investments in new plants. It was expected he would sign the measure some time during the day.

Another matter that will get prompt attention was the promulgation of additional rules and regulations covering eligibility and exemption under the selective service and training act.

In the presidential work basket also was the $1,482,000,000 supply bill that will finance the cost of training the first conscript army. Approval was expected, probably today.

Neither did the mayor indicate what his choice would be, although he had previously favored one of the lower-priced manually operated meters.

Following a recent inspection trip to the Pittsburgh area, the mayor indicated that he would insist on installation of a penny-nickel combination machine for Mansfield.

The penny-nickel type meters permit parking rental for less than one-hour periods. All of the bidding companies offer this kind of meter as well as the type which uses only nickels.

Prices proposed in the bids received yesterday ranged from $33 to $68 with various terms for rental and service and installation costs.

Council authorized the installation of the machines on a nine-month trial period at its Aug. 6 meeting—after a special council committee had studied the proposal for more than two years.

Recommendations for trial of the meters was made by the Citizens' committee on traffic, at the conclusion of a city-wide survey of Mansfield traffic ills. They had previously been endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants association.

Neffner's prediction of a November vote which will top the all-time record of 1936, came as a surprise to many political observers, who felt that the campaign for state and county tickets was arousing only a moderate interest.

The answer, observers say, is that while hundreds of thousands of Ohio voters may be indifferent to state contests, they are keenly interested in the out come of the presidential battle and will indicate their preference on Nov. 5.

CORN BELT FARMERS HARVEST SMALLEST CROP IN FOUR YEARS

CHICAGO —(AP)— Bangboards were rattling again in the broad corn belt today as farmers harvested the 1940 crop, smallest in four years but worth more on a government loan supported market than any crop since 1937.

Although picking and husking will not reach a climax for several days, mechanical equipment and men already were at work filling new corn on a record-breaking carry-over accumulated during the past four seasons. Cribs, silos, bins and steel tanks throughout the belt now hold corn grown in 1937, 1938, 1939 and 1940.

The new crop, which has been maturing rapidly in recent weeks, does not compare in size or quality with its recent predecessors, grain men said. As a result, the total domestic supply, including carry-over of around 600,000,000 bushels, is expected to be about 300,000,000 smaller than last year.

However, the prospective harvest of about 2,300,000,000 bushels, at prices up to 8 cents higher in the futures market than a year ago, would have a market value of around $1,350,000,000, compared with a valuation at this time last year of $1,300,000,000 for the 2,619,000,000 bushel 1939 crop. While this valuation is only theoretical, since more than three-fourths of the crop is marketed as livestock, traders pointed out that current livestock prices indicate that producers can convert corn into meat on as favorable a basis as existed a year ago.

For best grades of old cash corn, Chicago dealers were paying from around 63 cents to almost 75 cents, or 13 to 14 cents more than a year ago, reflecting in part an artificial commercial supply scarcity due to the loan program. The original loan rate at the farm was 57 cents.

PART-TIME JOB PLAN NEAR END

39 Street Employes Expected to Go Back After Council Acts on Fund Transfer.

Thirty-nine street department employes who have been working part time the past month will go back on full schedule next week.

This was indicated today as Mayor William J. Locke issued a call for a special meeting of council for Monday evening to approve a $3,200 transfer in funds to bolster the department's depleted resources.

The meeting was called by the mayor following a session with council's finance committee yesterday afternoon during which the committee recommended the fund transfers.

Locke had asked the committee several weeks ago for $10,000 to meet payrolls and for the purchase of materials in the department for the balance of the year, citing an $18,000 balance in the city's general fund.

The finance committee, however, declined to tap the fund for the money pointing out that $20,000 was needed for anticipated storm sewer construction this winter.

Instead, the funds will be taken from gasoline tax money and license fee funds, neither of which have substantial balances, according to City Auditor Paul L. Kelley.

Of the total amount to be transferred, $1,500 will be earmarked for the purchase of materials and $1,700 for labor, of which $269 will go to 10 employes for back pay.

Locke said all department workers would be ordered back on the job next week in order to put the streets in shape for winter driving.

"I don't know how long the money will last but we'll do what we can and hope for additional funds later on," the mayor added.

He enlisted in the National Guard 29 years ago and was in service on the Mexican Border war, the World war, and was with the A. E. F. in Germany. He remained in the regular army after the war, and graduated No. 1 with his class from the Command and General Staff college.

Churchill Hints Invasion of Germany Some Day

GIVES REPORT ON PROGRESS OF CONFLICT

Says Hitler May Send Nazi Troops 'Into, Instead of Over Sea.'

(By International News Service)

LONDON—With a guarded hint that Britain someday may send an invading army against Nazi Germany, Prime Minister Winston Churchill today laid bare the extent of casualties wrought by German bombing planes upon the British Isles and admitted that the naval fiasco at Dakar was due to "errors and accidents."

In a lengthy, restrained but frequently touching speech to the house of commons, Churchill made these salient points:

1—A total of 8,500 persons have been killed and 13,000 wounded since the "air blitzkrieg" began, but the casualties are steadily diminishing.

2—Britain's home guard of 1,700,000 men will be trained steadily during the winter "not necessarily for action in these islands."

3—The German air war is proving a tremendous strain on the Nazi air force, and the RAF continues to score notable victories.

4—Chancellor Hitler may yet launch his invasion—but he may be sending his troops "into the sea" instead of out upon it.

5—The Italo-German-Japanese pact was directed primarily against the United States, but against Russia as well. Churchill congratulated the United States for its refusal to be cowed by threats.

6—Premier Mussolini faces a good many surprises he did not expect when he thought it "safe and profitable to stab France in the back."

With the declaration that new mistakes and disappointments must be expected and that "constancy and valor will be our only shield," Churchill was frank in admitting the Dakar fiasco, when "Free French" forces headed by General Charles De Gaulle and backed by units of the British navy retired after a battle.

"By a series of accidents some errors were made," Churchill said of the Dakar incident. "They are now the subject of formal inquiries.

"Neither the first sea lord nor the inner cabinet were informed of the approach of French warships to the Straits of Gibraltar until it was too late to stop them from passing through."

(Editor's note: These warships were later pursued by De Gaulle's "fleet" and encountered at Dakar.)

After referring to casualties and their diminution, Churchill continued:

"Certainly there has been a falling off in the last week or ten days and we have had a steady decline in casualties and damage in so-called vulnerable points.

"We know exactly what we are doing in reply. From many sources open to us, we believe that German heavy bomber pilots are being worked at least as hard and many a great deal harder than our own, and the strain on pilots is considerable.

"The bulk of them don't seem capable of anything beyond blind bombing.

"On the whole, we may under all reserve reach the provisional conclusion that the German average effort against this country absorbs a very considerable part of their forces and strength. I shouldn't like to say we have the measure of their power, but feel more confident than I have ever been before."

Churchill analyzed the number of bombs dropped with the casualties caused. He said that on one night when the Germans claimed 250 tons of bombs were dropped, only 180 persons were killed.

SCHOOLS TO GET $131,395 MORE IN STATE FUNDS

State Estimates Richland To Get $1,042,215 By End of Year.

By the end of this year, Mansfield and Richland county schools will have received $1,042,215 from the state for the 1939-40 period, or $131,395 more than they got in the preceding two-year period, figures released by the Ohio department of finance showed today.

The increase amounts to $10.79 for every pupil in the city and county schools. During the past two years the state has paid $4,926 in interest on loans obtained to city and county schools districts several years ago. The local districts formerly had to pay the interest themselves.

Get Funds On Time.

The report pointed out that under a revised state financial setup, school districts are now receiving their quarterly allotments on time. They usually were delayed under the old system, forcing local districts to borrow against anticipated state allocations.

Under the former system of school financing revenue earmarked for schools frequently fell short of the amount promised to school districts. To meet the payments, the state piled up an $18,000,000 debt, of which $3,000,000 has been paid in the past year and $3,000,000 more will be retired in December.

VERBAL BLOWS EXCHANGED IN GOVERNOR RACE

Bricker and Davey Trade Oral Punches During Campaign Talks.

(By Associated Press)

It was "full steam ahead" for Ohio's major political candidates today.

Gov. John W. Bricker had speaking engagements in Norwalk, Pittsfield, Oberlin, Elyria and Lorain in his campaign for re-election, while his Democratic opponent, former Gov. Martin L. Davey, was to appear in Wauseon, Napoleon, Bowling Green and Findlay.

The gubernatorial candidates traded further verbal blows in their weekly radio addresses last night. The governor accused Davey of "utter deceit" in his promise to repeal the sales tax and increase old age pensions, while the Kent tree surgeon declared Bricker "an enemy of labor."

In a broadcast originating in Cincinnati, Governor Bricker said "loss of the sales tax revenue may completely end aid for the aged payments in Ohio." Comparing his own administration of the welfare department with Davey's, the governor declared that Davey's administration of relief caused the federal government to take it over and that the social security board withheld $1,338,000 from the state because of his old age pension policies.

Bricker said he cancelled "illegal contracts" let during the Davey administration for 40,000 tons of coal and saved the state $200,000 on fuel purchases.

He also claimed that 3,200 bags of coffee were purchased by the Davey administration for welfare institutions at $15 a hundredweight compared to $7 a hundredweight paid for coffee this year.

Davey said he favored using unemployment compensation reserves to increase weekly benefits to the unemployed, holding only a safe emergency balance. He said weekly benefits of $1.25 to $7.50 were being paid the jobless instead of the $15 maximum contemplated by Ohio law.

The former governor also criticised Governor Bricker's administration for substituting an administrator for a three-man unemployment compensation commission.

MISS HELEN WIRICK MARRIED TO RICHARD SNYDER AT JOHNSVILLE

BELLVILLE—Miss Helen Wirick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Wirick, became the bride of Richard A. Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Snyder of Lexington and Johnsville, Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Joseph M. O'Morrow, pastor of the Lutheran church here, at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Johnsville before an improvised altar banked with palms, ferns and pink and white chrysanthemums and lighted with two seven-branched candelabra.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she wore an ivory slipper satin gown with a fingertip veil held in place by tiny gardenias. She carried a white Bible with a spray of gardenias. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Charlene Weirick, whose gown was of pink taffeta trimmed in blue velvet. Talisman rosebuds and blue delphinium formed her shoulder corsage and she wore a pink tulle toque trimmed with blue velvet. The bridegroom's brother, David, of Lexington, was the best man, while Dale Wirick, brother of the bride, and Robert Snyder, another of the bridegroom's brothers from Lexington, were the ushers.

A reception for 100 guests followed, and the room in which refreshments were served at small tables was transformed into an outdoor garden. Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Snyder left for a short motor trip. The bride's traveling costume was of soldier blue crepe, and with it she wore dubonnet accessories. Both Mr. and Mrs. Snyder are graduates of the Johnsville high school. He is employed at the Colby and Earick company in Mansfield.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1940.

Europe's war has wandered far away from its starting place in Danzig.

Careful consideration results in the conclusion that the lawn must be mowed once more before the snow shovel is brought out.

Now is the time when some of the fellows who neglected to register may be expected to complain about how things are being run.

Delayed Bridge Replacement

THERE is probably some good reason why the North Main street bridge, just north of the Erie railroad crossing, has been allowed to go through more than a year as a temporary make-shift, instead of being replaced by a permanent structure suitable to this important traffic highway.

Just what this good reason is, however, cannot be satisfactorily ascertained from officials who should be in position to know—and upon whom responsibility rests.

If, as the information is given, the county is responsible for constructing and maintaining bridges on state highways inside the corporation, there appears to be no question about it being up to the county commissioners to build a new bridge after the collapse of an old one, as in this instance.

But if the law is not clear on this subject and one-third of the cost is legitimately chargeable against the city, as the commissioners contend, there should be no difficulty in clearing up the matter and proceeding with the bridge replacement instead of allowing the present inconvenient and dangerous condition to drag through the winter.

It appears, in any event, that the state highway department has offered to pay one-third of the bridge cost, so that no more than two-thirds would rest upon the county, in the event the city is not required, under the law, to pay any part of the cost.

In the public interest, The News-Journal suggests that officials of Richland county, the city of Mansfield and the state highway department get together on this matter and construct a substantial modern bridge at this point as quickly as possible.

Compensation for Trainees

MILITARY SERVICE may not be such a hardship as some of the eligible men have feared. Preparations are being made by army authorities to give them plenty of freedom and recreation along with their training. They are to have as good food and lodging as can be provided. The public naturally shows the same spirit, and it is already clear that in general there won't be much martyrdom about it.

It is generally understood that the men in training will get their jobs back after their year's service.

Along with this, at least one big employer is guaranteeing employes who volunteer or are drafted that during their year's training it will pay them the difference between their regular earnings and their military service pay. This action has been announced by the American Tobacco company, which says:

"It is our feeling that the man who volunteers or who is called from his job to be trained for the defense of his country should be given every encouragement and assistance."

Small Homes at Small Cost

HOME-OWNERSHIP is the aspiration of so many people that the development of an attractive small home, with modern conveniences, in the $3,500 to $4.500 price range, has been given much attention within the past few years.

Under financing plans now available, it is possible for reliable persons to make a start toward becoming home-owners with a small cash outlay—possibly no more than the cost of the lot—followed by monthly payments of little more than rent on a similar property.

Quantity production of certain standardized materials has helped in reducing costs of small home construction, coupled with simplicity of design which has been accomplished without loss of individuality.

While there will continue to be demand for homes in the next higher brackets of from $5.000 to $7.500, and on into the more expensive properties, a fine service is being performed in making home-ownership possible for persons in position to regularly pay from $25 to $35 a month and who prefer making these payments toward eventual ownership rather than as rental.

Have You Thought About This?

ANIMALS make much trouble for automobilists, states an insurance company. But you'd never guess the most dangerous animal of all. It's not the horse that tries to jump over the car and succeeds only in jumping onto it. Not the rooster which flaps its wings behind the driver. Not the little dog that runs and barks. Not even the bears of the Yellowstone which do strange things to cars and cause accidents costing hundreds of thousands of dollars. It's not even the cow which changes its mind right in front of the car.

The really dangerous critter is the bee. It makes the driver jerk, or makes someone else in the car jerk or yell and get the car out of control.

But the bee will not sting if given a chance to escape. Keep quiet when you see it. Have someone open another window, changing the course of the draft. Or a road map quietly moving behind the bee towards the open window will usually turn the trick. The best idea, however, is calmly to stop the car and dispose the unwanted guest without any complications.

Impetus To Shipbuilding

BETWEEN war and depression," says a business writer, "the outlook for American shipbuilding companies is better than it has been for many years." This statement applies to ships for normal, domestic transportation as well as warships and vessels for supplementary service to the navy.

Obviously there is going to be a lot of building to do, by land and by water, in the next several years. And when the emergency is over, there will remain enormous water-carrying capacity, if democracy comes out on top.

Whether there will also be cargoes for the ships is a question which nobody can answer now.

Political fable: Once there was a congressional candidate who campaigned as follows: "All I can promise you is to put the national interest first when it is in conflict with the personal and local interests of my constituents."

HANDICAPS TO DEMOCRACY

Listen World!

Bridge In School

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

TALK about your bliztkriegs! The Marina Mamas are pulling one in San Francisco right now that makes Herr Hitler's efforts look like a spitball contest.

All because Superintendent of Schools Joseph P. Nourse, doesn't believe teachers' time and taxpayers' money should be used to teach Young America how to play contract bridge in school hours.

And the mamas of said darlings believe it should and demand results herewith—or else!

Here's how it started. For the last three years various young card fans have been playing bridge in study periods in practically every Junior or regular high school in San Francisco, ages of said players ranging from 12 to 18.

Some months since, a request was made and reluctantly granted that certain school time each week be devoted to serious instruction in said "art." Whereupon, enthusiasm for such instruction spread like a dose of hives. And naturally! What normal youngster wouldn't rather play bridge, or marbles, or even ring-around-the-rosy, than dig at some corny old Algebra or Grammar?

So education went Contract Bridge with a bang. Until, this fall, Joseph P. Nourse, with an even louder bang, put the official taboo on the whole thing. Whereupon Multo Mad Mamas from the Marina, Galileo, Polythechnic and Lowell high schools arose en mass and demanded that Contract Bridge be restored as a part of the high school curriculum.

So now the war is raging, with no bomb shelters. Not only do the indignant parents—for Dad's as het up as Mom—call for the restoration of the Contract Bridge Period, but they want to know why it shouldn't be a regular school subject, with credits.

"It's a social asset for my daughter's future life," says one mother. "It develops citizenship and a practical mathematical sense," says another. "My wife and I both enjoy bridge-playing ourselves," opines another, "and are glad, etc. . . ."

So there you get it, or maybe you don't! Singularly, the various arguments—and there are scores—entirely overlook two vital points. They are completely unconcerned with the Taxpayers' view of the matter, or the nation's current necessities. Not to mention Young America's own mental development.

The average hard-working American citizen — the farmer, mechanic, small shopkeeper, common laborer—hardly know that Contract Bridge exists, and doesn't give a darn. He still adheres to our original "stupid" democratic notion that Life should consist of hard work, serious thinking and a little fishing trip or a new party dress now and then.

To him the idea that citizenship can be promoted by afternoons spent in gossip or playing cards is plain cockoo—and nothing else but. And to give his hard-earned taxes for such a purpose is an open invitation to revolution. He earns those dollars with sweat, anxiety, mangling weariness. He pays them only because he thinks they are demanded by vital necessity. Then someone comes along nd says they should be used to teach Contract Bridge—and how does he feel? Partner, the editor won't let me print how he feels.

Moreover, millions of intelligent, travelled and sophisticated persons agree with him 100 per cent. They, too, see life reduced to its elementals. They also realize that, in these tragic times, there is no place for idle hours or empty schools. All we have and all we are should be consecrated to the most ghastly chaos, the most pitiful need, the race has ever known. If we can do nothing else to serve our country, we can at least learn what it's all about . . . what this hell of heartache and horror means.

How many of these Bridge Babies and their Mad Mamas could answer an intelligent questionnaire on current events? How many are taking courses in first aid . . . learning some useful craft in case a craftsman is called away? The answer is, ASK 'EM!

Personally, gals, I think you're dead wrong! But my private opinion is not conclusive. So I'm asking one and all, regardless of conviction—

HOW DO YOU STAND ON THIS QUESTION, STRANGER? DO YOU CONSIDER CONTRACT BRIDGE A VITAL EDUCATIONAL NECESSITY IN TIMES LIKE THESE? DO YOU BELIEVE OUR TERRIBLY NEEDED TAX MONEY SHOULD BE SPENT TO SUPPORT SUCH COURSES?

Let's hear! I want to know. I want to help you tell the world. Names kept confidential if desired.

P. S. And as for Professor Joseph P. Nourse, cheers and salaams. Old Horatius, with his back against the bridge had nothing on you, my friend!

Timely Editorial

Call of the Wild.

From now until cold weather sets in, the forests will be at their best. Of course the woods offer a special appeal each season, whether it is when the limbs are burdened with green foliage, when the buds are just showing their first touch of mysterious color, or even in the coldest winter when the icy limbs give demon's voices to the surging winds.

However, autumn seems best. The colors offer never ending interest and surprise. All the animals and birds seem to be intensely active, as if preparing for the winter they know to be but a few weeks ahead.

The air has an aroma which is joyous and stimulating to the lungs. It makes one want to walk, to climb the hills, to stand beside the streams with their flotillas of leaves drifting on the current.

It is pleasant to ride through the countryside and view the trees in their autumn glory from the car window, but it is much more satisfactory to saunter through the woods, looking and listening. It is a fine experience, and is a tonic for the appetite.—Ohio State Journal.

SINCE the first discovery of oil in Ohio 506 million barrels valued at $730,000,000 have been taken from beneath the ground.

Oil was first reported in 1814 in Caldwell, Noble county. Since then the oil industry has developed until now 1650 miles of trunk pipe lines, 1300 miles of oil pipe lines and 350 miles of gasoline pipe lines are in use. Twelve refineries, employing nearly 35,000 people are operating in the state.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why Story "Rings" True.

We say a story "rings" true. The story, of course, does not "ring" at all; but this use of the word is an extension from circumstances in which it was by a literal "ringing" sound that truth or falsity was established.

The allusion is to the days when large quantities of counterfeit money circulated.

Then a common sight was to see people drop to the counter a coin they had received in payment—a practice still to be observed by change makers in street railway station booths—in order to hear the ring which they could distinguish the genuine from the imitation.

Knudsen, Friendly To Roosevelt, Is Asked To Declare For Willkie

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There was a special reason why Defense Commissioner William Knudsen was invited to accompany the president on his Maryland defense inspection tour.

Knudsen is an expert on production, and Roosevelt visited certain arsenals and airplane factories. But in addition, Knudsen is under heavy pressure from former business associates to declare publicly for Wendell L. Willkie.

Behind the scenes, they are pulling hard for the Republican candidate. Alfred P. Sloan, Knudsen's former boss and close friend, has called for the election of Willkie as necessary for sound economic progress.

A similar pronouncement by Knudsen, who is No. 1 man of the defense commission, would be a smash coup for Willkie—particularly if it were coupled with the inference that Knudsen has encountered difficulties with the administration in doing his defense job.

Actually relations between Knudsen and Roosevelt are very cordial. Knudsen is his own boss and recently the president has been consulting him not only on defense matters but on general national policies involving foreign affairs.

However, while on intimate terms with the White House, Knudsen has had some brushes elsewhere. He and treasury officials crossed swords over certain phases of the new excess profits tax bill. Also the protracted congressional delay over plant amortization, while no fault of Roosevelt's, irked Knudsen considerably, since it threw a monkey wrench into production schedules on which he had worked hard and of which he was very proud.

Aware of this private irritation, certain of Knudsen's former business pals have been quietly needling him to bolt the Defense Commission with a ringing demand for the election of Willkie.

This political pressure has not been entirely from the outside. Some heavy licks have been put in by certain dollar-a-year business tycoons inside the Defense Commission, several of them on Knudsen's own staff.

With the tax bill and last appropriation measures finally cleared by congress, Knudsen is immersed in getting his production schedules into high gear and has given no indication of being influenced by politics. But the GOPers are putting on the heat from every direction and as hard as they can.

Nazi Propaganda.

INFORMATION throwing light on Germany's falsification of radio reports has been received by the state department from Colonel E. J. Ragsdale of Philadelphia, who declares that his daughter was falsely impersonated in a Berlin broadcast.

The Nazis pretended to have the young woman, Miss Natalia Ragsdale in their broadcasting studio. They presented her to American listeners to testify to the ruthlessness of British bombing. She spoke, describing the bombing of a hospital in Berlin. Then the German speaker, "Lord Haw Haw," said, "American listeners must now believe, from the lips of an American young woman, what atrocities the British are committing."

The only trouble was that the Germans were too clever. Instead of inventing a name, they had actually picked a known American woman and pretended that she was speaking at the microphone.

The broadcast was heard by an associate of Colonel Ragsdale in Philadelphia, who phoned him and asked, "Is your daughter in Berlin?" "Of course not," replied Ragsdale, "she is right here in the room with me."

Air-Cord Speech.

WHEN Wendell Willkie makes up his mind to make a speech, he makes it.

During his trip across Iowa, his campaign train passed through Waterloo, a good sized industrial center, and Cedar Falls, a college town. Although only six or seven miles apart, talks had been scheduled and advertised for both places.

En route some of the train managers decided to pass up Cedar Falls in order to permit a longer stop at Waterloo. Howard Gallagher, train majordomo, gave these instructions to the engineer.

To Arch McFarlane of Waterloo, former lieutenant governor, this was poor political judgment. He insisted that to fail to stop in Cedar Falls would cause resentment. But the generalissimos refused to listen. So Arch elbowed his way into Willkie's car and put the matter up to him.

"You can't pass up Cedar Falls," McFarlane argued. "The town has gone Republican in every election in its history, and the college has dismissed classes so the 3,500 students can hear you."

"You are absoluately right, Arch," said Willkie. "I won't disappoint those people. We'll stop. Tell them I said to adhere to the original schedule."

But by this time the train was rolling into the outskirts of Cedar Falls and it was too late to get word to the engineer. That didn't faze Willkie.

"The way to stop a train," he grinned, "is to pull the air cord."

A secretary reached up, jerked the cord, the train came to a halt and Willkie made his scheduled talk.

Chilean Steel Mill?

STEEL plants are contagious. Within a week after the United States had granted a $20,000,000 credit to Brazil for a steel plant, Chile made a similar proposition.

Through a representative in Washington, Chile asked the Export-Import Bank for a credit to enlarge Chile's steel production by expanding a plant located at Valdivia, Chile.

The bank has already earmarked a credit of $12,000,000 for Chile, most of which remains unspent. Funds for the steel operation may be drawn from this commitment.

Watching Trends

WASHINGTON — There have been so many requests for explanations of selective service rulings that I have decided to devote a series of columns to questions and answers. This is the first effort to clarify the problems which arise under the Burke-Wadsworth selective service bill.

Q. My birthday is Oct. 17. On that date I will be 36. Am I subject to registration?

A. Certainly. The law says that any man between the ages of 21 and 36 (that is, if on that date you ARE 21 or 35) you must register. Thus, if you are 21 on that date or 36 the day after, you must register.

Q. I am taking an automobile trip on Oct. 14. On Oct. 16, I will be in Grand Canyon National park. Where do I register?

A. In Grand Canyon National Park. Under the Selective Service regulations, if a person subject to registration is out of his state or registration district and CAN NOT GET BACK, he must register in the registration district in which he is staying. In the case of National Parks, provision is made for the National Director to register not only all residents in his park, but all visitors. In the case of visitors, these cards are sent back to home states for handling. There are 22 national parks in which this ruling holds true. The ruling also applies to CCC camps, to men on vacation but traveling outside their state or district, to visitors on Indian reservations.

Q. I am ill in a hospital. How can I register?

A. Provision will be made through your county clerk to register you just as if you were in your own registration district.

Q. I am ill at home. I can not get out to register. What must I do to avoid penalties under the law?

A. Deputize a competent person to register for you. In this instance, the person you deputize will act as registrar for you. With, of course, the permission of the local board. If you are too ill or quarantined on registration day, present yourself to your local board as soon as possible and under these circumstances, have a physician's certificate or other competent evidence on hand to prove your case.

Q. I am going to be out of the United States on registration day. What must I do to avoid the penalties of non-registration?

A. Present yourself to your local board within five days after you get back in the United States, offer them proof that you were outside the United States on October 16 (a ticket stub, stamped passport, reports from your local newspaper, or affidavits from responsible neighbors would be evidence enough) and register in the ordinary manner.

Q. I am subject to selective service registration, but at present am in a reformatory. Will I get in more trouble if I do not register?

A. Not unless you fail to register on the date of expiration of your sentence. This ruling also applies to persons in insane asylums jails and penitentiaries. Such persons will be registered "on the way of discharge" by the superintendent or warden of the institution and your responsibility from there on is to your local precinct in which you formerly had residence.

Q. My working hours are such that I can't get to the registration board on October 16. What do I do?

A. If your employer prevents your getting there on that day, he is obstructing selective service and subject to penalties under the law. In most cases registration day will be a holiday and persons who have to work on holidays will be given time off to register.

A Farmer's Diary

Some Are Like That

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

SOME years ago we had a farmer in our community who was never known as a pious or religious character. I passed his home one late afternoon during a cold fall drizzle. I counted 30 shoats out in his wheat field. He had just put his 10 milch cows into their stalls and walked toward the house, when he missed the pigs from their accustomed pen. Then he saw their white backs and flanks above the rank green growth of wheat below the house.

I heard him call his dog, a smooth black mongrel, and command it with an oath to eat the blasted rascals up. Like a blurry black line, the faithful animal went, to bring in the greedy stubborn pigs. But when he chased one portion of the scattered herd toward the barn, the other porkers spread out farther. It seemed the dog would not get them all, no matter how frantically he bit and pawed at them. Then I heard my neighbor burst out in angry profane words, and saw him take a heavy switch and wade into the long wet grass to help the dog. After half an hour, man and dog rounded up all the stock and had them safely back in their pen. Then the farmer looked across the fence, and with apparent satisfaction, cursed separately each offending pig. The epithets were vile and terrible to hear and I pitied those who had to live with such a man, and call him husband or dad.

That same fall another farmer down the road was injured when his team ran off. His corn was in the shock and his rye field ready for the drill. Two days after the accident I saw the man whose language would not do to print sowing in his injured neighbor's field with as much interest as if it were his own. Before his own corn was husked, he planned a day when all the neighborhood would join him in husking and hauling the injured man's corn. The women brought baskets of food and it was made a festive and jolly occasion.

Every morning for quite a while the gray mule and the antiquated buckboard that were used by neighbor No. 1 for hauling milk stopped at the corner of the barn where neighbor No. 2 kept his cattle. That injured neighbor did not miss his milk check once—thanks to a friend who cussed and then got busy.

"Jim, over there, don't go to church and he swears a lot, but he's the best neighbor around here," remarked a man who knew. "He's got a heart as big as his head, and I never knew an honester man. But you'd never guess it, the first time you heard him get mad."

CHAPTER VI

The man spoke in a quiet, thoughtful tone, his body bent forward in his low chair, his locked fingers dropped between his knees. He looked at the fire.

"I wonder, my dear," he said, "if we haven't been fools. You're quite right. What we did take was really much more than what we prided ourselves upon not taking! Companionship, love, longing, we struggled to adjust them for months and months. Well, we kept to the letter of the law. I'm going away on Monday; we'll not see each other again for a long time. We've killed the beautiful thing, it's dying by inches."

His voice had sunk so low that she could hardly hear him. It was as if he were merely thinking aloud. "But I wonder," he said musingly again, "if we haven't been fools!"

It was her turn to be silent now. She could not speak.

"I thought I could say good-bye to you rationally and easily," Kent was presently saying. "I'd thought it all out. My promotion, going back to live in the old town, playing fair with Lilian. I don't know why that should suddenly have seemed to me important, for she's not especially happy with me. I think that after any break or change she'd very quickly readjust herself, settle down again. But anyway, I felt that she and I were very definitely in the picture, and you necessarily out of it, and that we could work it out that way. Now——"

He stopped on the word and was silent. She took it up.

"Now? Nothing is changed now. Except that we have had this wonderful stolen hour and this talk."

"Everything's changed now," he stated firmly. "I know now that it's only you. That's what I've just been finding out. You're the one wonderful, perfect thing that's ever come into my life, and all that matters is that I don't lose you. I've been an awful fool, Jocelyn; I've been sitting here thinking, just these last few minutes what a consummate fool I've been!"

He stood up and put his pipe on the low mantel, and came over to kneel beside her and take both her hands in his.

"Darling," he said, "will you forgive me? You have forgiven me, haven't you, or you'd never have come over tonight. Will you trust me that I'll not fail you again? We'll go through with it now. We'll go through with it now!" Kent repeated with a long indrawn breath. "I'll not go to Portland Monday, Jocelyn," he said, "I'll go to Reno. It's best that way, dear, and afterward we'll take whatever chances come along. I'll always be able to take care of you, even if it's only in a place like this. I'll see Lilian tomorrow, in Richmond here——"

"In Richmond?" Her sharp whisper filled the pause as he hesitated. Richmond was but a few miles away.

"Yes, she didn't go to Oregan. Her sister, who lives here in Richmond, telephoned her Wednesday that their mother is down here visiting. So Lillian went over there yesterday and will drive up with them later in the week. Jocelyn, I know she'll be reasonable," Kent said. "I think I knew all along that this was the way it must be, and I've been fighting it off—I've been trying to keep what I had and have you too. That's over now. We'll never part again, sweetheart. And when we can—the first moment that we can, we'll be married." He leaned back, still holding her lightly by the shoulders, to smile at her. "You know that, don't you?" he said.

She looked deep into his eyes. Her own eyes were very serious. "I do know that, Kent."

"Then that's that. I'll see Lilian tomorrow. And after that I'll resign from the Portland thing and get my old job back, and we'll start from there. For love's the only thing that's true," Kent said, "love's the only thing too precious to throw away. You'll not be afraid?" he broke off to ask suddenly, "You trust me?"

"I seem to have been waiting so long to hear you say this, Kent." She leaned forward and rested her forehead against his with a long sigh, and felt his arm tighten about her, and his cheek against his hair.

"Jocelyn, I'm so happy!" he said.

"I'm happy, too."

"It's called burning your bridges behind you, you know, and I've always thought it sounded rather formidable. But what a relief!"

There was a silence. And then quite without warning Jocelyn felt a great boredom possess her, and what they were saying lost all its meaning and was flat and strange. She still felt Kent's arm about her; she was conscious of the nearness and the power of him, but he was no longer he, nor she herself. They were two complete strangers. Inwardly she shook herself, trying to get her bearings again. This was Kent, she was Jocelyn; they were up in the hills alone at night in Covey's cabin.

"Say you're happy that we are going to give up everything else and live just for each other!" he was whispering.

"Happy!" she said with a smile, swallowing with a dry throat.

What on earth was the matter? All the color, all the thrill had drained out of life. She felt stupid and unresponsive. The sudden revulsion of feeling, or rather death of feeling, frightened her. She found herself speaking gently to him, affectionately, almost soothingly. He must not know how suddenly their whole castle of dreams had come fluttering down.

"I'll go now and write him tomorrow," she thought, even while her fine fingers rested against his cheek, and his words of adoration and eagerness poured on past her unhearing ears.

Why didn't it reach her? Why didn't it stir her? She looked at him with a slow smile in her eyes, with infinite pity in her heart, with her thoughts far away from him. Already he was out of her life; already the part he had played was far behind her; already she had gone on in her mind to the trip back to the city, the car flying through the dark, the heavenly safety of her room again. And tomorrow she would go decorously to Sausalito and rejoice with Tots and all the cousins over the latest engagement, and feel herself free of the shadow that had darkened her life for more than a year.

"What are you thinking of?" he said, suddenly aware of her inattention, suddenly jealous.

"That I must go home," she answered mildly. "We can make all our plans tomorrow."

There was a telephone in the cabin, which was used as a fire station in dry weather. The forest rangers had placed it there; it was rarely used by Covey or any of his guests. Now it rang sharply in the lonely dark mountain night, above the swishing of leaves and creaking of boughs and the sound of the wind at the mouth of the wide chimney.

Jocelyn and Kent looked at it and at each other and at the clock. Ten minutes to ten. With a shrug the man went and picked up the instrument. It was Lilian, telephoning from Richmond, only a dozen miles away. Jocelyn heard him answering patiently; the married man again.

"I can come back here Monday, Lil, and pick up my stuff and then drive the car to Bertha's and leave it there for you. You wouldn't want it before Monday? . . . All right. If there's nobody there I'll put the key on the top of the screen door. . . . Yep. Tell her I'm sorry not to see her. . . . No, no, don't you girls change your plans; you go do your shopping; that'll be all right. Bertha'll be coming up for Christmas, won't she? . . . Yep. Need money? How's the tooth?"

Jocelyn went without hurry toward the kitchen, picking up her bag as she went. Kent's back was toward the room. Her hat and coat were spread in the kitchen, drying; she put them on quickly, and went quietly out the kitchen door and around the house. Her car started up almost noiselessly; there was enough disturbance in the air and among the trees and shrubs to cover whatever sound the engine made. As the machine wheeled to turn into the lane, Jocelyn turned up her lights, swept away down into the darkness, heard the mud squelching beneath her wheels.

County Gets Fund To Pay Off Old Debts For Relief

The three Richland county relief areas received $2,366 today in state relief money, but they must use it to pay old debts and not for current expenses.

Allocated from state collections of beer, malt and admission taxes, the money will go to Mansfield, Shelby, and Richland county to retire notes issued about two years ago when relief funds were badly needed.

Mansfield has approximately $60,000 outstanding in notes, while the county owes $30,000. Shelby has a much smaller indebtedness. The state funds, when allocated to the county auditor, are distributed on the basis of the size of the debt.

The county's $30,000 relief obligation is the only debt it has, and it will be paid by the state through funds allocated to the county.

PROGRAM ON PERIODS IN MUSIC GIVEN AT CLUB

Guest Party Held for Opening Session of Mansfield Study Group; Old, Modern Selections Presented By Members.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

ONE of the most unusual and diversified programs was presented at Westbrook Country club last night when the Mansfield Music Study club opened its season with a guest musical and buffet supper. Miss Florence MacDonald opened the program with a paper on the colonial period from 1620 to 1770. She told of the first music used by the Pilgrims and Puritans which was the psalms or psalter hymns.

"For the first century and a half America was a musical wilderness," she stated. She told of the Bay Psalm book of Cotton Mather, the most famous of that period, and how the melodies were added about 1690. Instruments were not used at all, and it was many years later that the church choirs were developed.

"Hymns were really an outgrowth of revivals," Miss MacDonald pointed. A mixed chorus including Helen Hartman, Mrs. John Klinger, the Misses Vera and Barbara Smythe, Frances Brinkerhoff, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Frank, Miss Betty Burneson, John Taylor, Paul Watts and Albert Arnold presented several psalms of the period, and Mrs. Frank sang a solo selection.

The next music was that imported from England, and then music began to develop in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and the south, the speaker explained, Albert Arnold gave a solo typifying the end of the period.

Mrs. Charles Anglin was in charge of the part of the program which dealt with folk music. Mrs. E. D. Gibson, violinist, Mrs. A. L. Twitchell, organist, and Mrs. Eleanor Stone Smith, Mr. Watts, John Grabler and Mrs. Anglin sang solo numbers. A quartet composed of Mr. Arnold, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Anglin and Mr. Watts concluded the hillbilly selections. Miss Anna Lois Dietrichson read the paper.

Have Minstrel.

Continuing A. LeMoine Derr served as interlocutor for a minstrel show and musical comedy numbers which typified the music of the theater from 1850 to 1900. The various roles were sung and spoken by Miss Sarah Catherine Wallace, Miss Thelma Reed, Lawrence Chamberlain, Don Kirkpatrick, Dwight Hodgson, and Mr. Grabler. Miss Myrtle Booth, who is ill, planned the program with the assistance of Mr. Grabler.

For the modern music past and present Miss Florence Gernhardt presented a paper dealing with the lives of well-known composers. After sketching the life of MacDowell she had Mrs. Louise Reynolds play a selection. Next the composer James Rogers was studied, and Mr. Taylor, accompanied by Eleanor Eckert, gave the illustrative vocal numbers. Other composers discussed by the speaker were John Carpenter and Carl Engel. Miss MacDonald, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Cahall, sang several numbers. Miss Eleanor Clingan concluded with the playing of a semi-classical modern number after Miss Gernhardt had pointed out that the 20th century had brought a change in music, and that musical America had become a power in her own right.

During the brief business meeting Mrs. George W. Hall, president, announced the district meeting which will be held at Wooster Oct. 14, and said that the Nov. 4 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Claude Marks with Mrs. Watts as chairman.

Miss Reed presented the program for the year.

Study for Year.

The study for the year will be based on "Contemporary American Music as It Is Created and Interpreted." For next month's meeting, the program will deal with American musicians including Albert Hay Malotte, Frank La Forge, John Charles Thomas, Richard Crooks, Beryl Rubinstein and Walter Damrosch for the subject. Mrs. Claude Marks is hostess.

Contrasts in style will be studied in December when Mr. Frank conducts the program. The artists to be discussed are Richard Hageman, Edgar Stillman Kelley, Helen Jepson, Leo Ornstein, Oley Speaks, Albert Spaulding and Percy Grainger. On Dec. 29 the club will entertain with a guest tea at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

For the first meeting of the new year, which will be held at the First Methodist church, Prof. Joseph Clokey, dean of fine arts at Miami university, will give a lecture recital, while the choir festival has been planned for Feb. 4 at the First Presbyterian church with Mr. Arnold in charge. Mrs. Anglin will direct the massed choir, Mrs. Cahall is organist, and Mrs. Frank and Mrs. Claude Ewing will assist.

"Jazz, an Educational Problem" is the title for the Feb. 11 program which Mrs. George Gernhardt is arranging. The composers to be studied are Irving Berlin Cole Porter, Ferde Grofe, George Gershwin and John Alden Carpenter with Mrs. Marie Porterfield, Mrs. Anglin, Mrs. Gibson, Miss Wallace and Miss Reed conducting a round table.

Mrs. Charles Shafer will be chairman for the March meeting on "Nature In Music." Composers to be considered are MacDowell, Charles T. Griffes, Victor Herbert, Rudolf Friml, Ethelbert Nevin, Thurlow Lieurance, Charles W. Cadman and Toscanini. Mrs. E. D. Gibson and Mrs. J. E. Gibson will be the hostesses.

On April 7 the club will have an exchange program with the Upper Sandusky Women's Music club at the hotel, and on April 21 a program will be presented by the junior clubs at John Simpson Junior high school. The final program will be a sealed one May 5 with Mrs. William J. Hazeltine in charge.

Club Officers.

Officers of the club this year are Mrs. Hall, president; Mrs. Watts, vice president; Miss Hester Robinson, recording secretary and librarian; Miss Vera Smythe, corresponding secretary; Mr. Watts, treasurer; Miss Margaret Black, historian; Mrs. Cahall, assisting recording secretary and Mr. Grabler, assisting treasurer. Mrs. Frank is librarian.

The program committee includes Miss Reed, Miss Wallace, Miss Burneson and Miss Louise Krause. Other committees are: altruistic, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Cahall; radio and current events, Miss Dietrichson; extension, Miss Gernhardt, Miss MacDonald; membership, Mrs Hazeltine. Miss Barbara Smythe; scholarship, the past presidents; social committee, Miss Teresa Pfeifer, Mrs. H. H. Clingan, Mrs. R. F. Cox, Miss Beatrice Colvin.

A buffet supper was served in the dining room of the club at the close of the program.
